

“The earth is the Lord’s and its fullness,
the world and all who dwell therein.”

The Pantocrator icon traditionally is found in the center dome of Orthodox churches. Its placement above us, and above the earth, teaches us that Jesus Christ is the ruler and judge over all the world.

“The earth is the Lord’s and its fullness,
the world and all who dwell therein” Psalm 23

The Pantocrator icon traditionally is found in the center dome of Orthodox churches. Its placement above us, and above the earth, teaches us that Jesus Christ is the ruler and judge over all the world. The icon comes from the center dome of St. Nicholas Antiochian Orthodox Cathedral in San Francisco, California.

"The earth is
the LORD'S
and its fullness,
the world and
all who dwell
therein" Psalm 23

The Pantocrator icon traditionally is found in the center dome of Orthodox churches. Its placement above us, and above the earth, teaches us that Jesus Christ rules over us, and all the world. He is our Lord and Master. The photo is of St. John Chrysostom Antiochian Orthodox Church in York, Pennsylvania.